5.0 Selection Process

Normally, the number of applications received for a position exceeds that required to fill existing and future posts. While candidates may meet the eligibility criteria of the competition, if the numbers applying for a post are such that it would not be practical to progress all candidates to the interview stage, An Bord Pleanála may decide that only a certain number may be called for interview.

In this respect, a short-listing process will take place to select a group who appear to be the most suitable for the position. This will consist of an examination of the application forms based on the essential requirements and person specification for the post. It is therefore in your own interest to provide a detailed and accurate account of how your skills, personal qualities, qualifications and experience meet the essential requirements of the post and person specification.

The Selection Process may include some or all the following:

- A shortlisting of candidates based on the information contained in their application
- A competitive interview which may be done remotely
- If Candidates are required to attend for interview, it is at their own expense. It is not possible to alter the allocated interview date or time.

Candidates who do not attend for interview, when and where required, will have no claim for further consideration and their candidature will be deemed to be withdrawn.

- Any candidate who supplies false or misleading information in their application may be disqualified or have their employment terminated.

- We will endeavour to keep candidates informed of the progress of their application at the earliest possible date.

Candidates should note that canvassing will disqualify and will result in their exclusion from the process.
