Irish Independent celebrates IRELAND and the MILLENNIUM

As the year 2000 approaches, the world is getting ready for the biggest celebration of the century. To commemorate Ireland's part in this global event, the Irish Independent are delighted to present our specially commissioned limited edition Millennium Medallion.

The National College of Art and Design was commissioned to produce design entries for reproduction as a commemorative medallion. This magnificent winning entry, by Eimear McNally, depicts symbols of traditional Ireland in a contemporary style. The harp is one of the oldest instruments known, going back thousands of years, and is intricately tied to Celtic culture, both ancient and modern. The reverse of the medallion conveys Ireland's position on the globe, the fingerprints suggesting the importance of maintaining our identity in the face of progress and globalization.

A limited opportunity...

The Irish Independent Millennium Medallion is 2" in diameter and will be produced in strictly limited numbers of Bronze, Silver 55q, 9ct Gold 60q, Fine Platinum 114q. Each medallion is individually
