CHARITY OVER CASH

Money doesn t

Rory

■ Bernie McGUIRE reports

definitely never get a part in any movie with a catch-phrase 'Show Me The Money!'.

McIlroy has revealed, ahead of teeing-up in this week's megamillions Tour Championship, just how important it is to him to enrich the lives of those around him rather than feed a bank account.

A year after playing the role of a silent partner to Tiger Woods in the final round in Atlanta as silent partner to Tiger woods in the final round in Atlanta as silent partner for Tiger woods in the final round in Atlanta as silent partner for Tiger woods in the final round in Atlanta as silent partner for Tiger woods in the final round in Atlanta as silent partner for Tiger woods in the final round in Atlanta as silent partner for the follow when the Holywood man won both the Tour Championship and the FedEx Cup.

"I guess $15m is always better than $10m," he said laughing.

"Seriously, who knows what the Wanters as I don't know because that is not what it is about.

"If the FedEx Cup wanted to create a legacy that lasts then it doesn't need to be about the money as it should be about the prestige of winning an event that you will be remembered for.

"The money is nice, it's wonderful and it brings top golfers in dine with maybe some of the other sports stars and what they are earning, as well.

"I am not saying money is a bad thing as it does motivate a lot of people but for me and my competitive spirit, I want to win the FedEx Cup for a different reasons.

"Is money one of them? Yeah, as it would be nice to win on Sunday and to win $15m or whatever it is but at the same time I will get more satisfaction from winning the golf tournament and playing well."

mcliroy then disclosed his charitable side and how he first in got the shock of learning how in much was in his bank account of after just three events as a pro.

"What's the reason for having a so much money if you can't share wit, and make people around you feel better," he said.

"One of the luxuries in having money is to be able to help others of that you love and you can share it around, and it doesn't always have to be about you and that is cool."

Mcliroy spoke of his joy at being the sheet of the cancer Fund for Children in to the Cancer Fund for Children in Northern Ireland and a second respite centre in Co Mayo.

"I donated money for them to buy the land the first respite centre and also donated money to the money for them to buy the Then there was that first encounter with an ATM in sub-urban Belfast.

"I played in the British Masters in my first event as a pro and win finished 42nd and won like it £17,000 and the next week I went to the Dunhill, finishing third g and won about £230,000," he e said.

"I was only 18 at the time and rs didn't really know about taxes, it but then I went to Madrid and shinished fourth and won another is 50 grand or whatever, and the ATM (I was) asked if I wanted to check my balance, so I checked my balance and thought 'Oh, in "I went straight to a jewellery story and bought myself a watch but that was back then.

"But at this point of my career it is not my motivating or driving factor."

McIlroy tees-up in the PGA Tour season-ending Tour Championship at 6.45pm (Irish time), lying fifth in the FedEx Cup standings.

Under the new format, he starts five shots behind American Justin Thomas, who leads the standings.

"I can see a scenario come Sunday that there could be as many as 15 guys have the chance to win the entire thing, so it will different," said McIlroy.
