Nowhere for 10,000 refugees to stay by end of month

Secret Cabinet memo says capacity to house Ukrainians is 'nearing exhaustion'

Hugh O'Connell, Senan Molony and Gabija Gataveckaitė

THE State's capacity to house Ukrainian refugees is nearing exhaustion, with a shortage of beds anticipated by the end of this week and as many as 10,000 people having no accommodation at all by the end of the month, the Cabinet has been secretly warned.

Ministers were told on Tuesday that with an average of 580 refugees arriving per day, around 5,000 additional beds will be needed by Easter to meet demand. This will be on top of those already identified across hotels, B&Bs, guesthouses, State facilities and from people who have pledged vacant homes and rooms.

The Cabinet was told the capacity for the State to accommodate refugees is now "nearing exhaustion" and that the continuing trajectory of arrivals gives rise to the "high risk of an acute lack of short-term, including emergency, accommodation" with up to 19,000 people seeking a place to stay.

This includes facilities such as the Millstreet Arena in Co Cork, with beds for 400 people, and the Army barracks at Gormanston, Co Meath, where tents are being erected, with room for 320.

Separately, the Irish Refugee Council has said unoccupied holiday homes should be prioritised - ahead of shared homes - for accommodating refugees, and called on the Government to look at long-term solutions.

'Russians burn bodies in Mariupol to cover up war crimes'

James Kilner and Roland Oliphant

RUSSIAN forces are hiding their war crimes in Mariupol by burning the bodies of murdered civilians in mobile crematoriums, the city's mayor has said.

Vadym Boychenko accused enemy forces of turning the once-bustling city of 500,000 people into a "death camp".

He claims the invading troops have recruited pro-Russian collaborators and separatist fighters from the breakaway 'Donetsk People's Republic' to collect and dispose of bodies.

"Russian mobile crematoria have started operating in Mariupol," he said.

"The world has not seen the scale of the tragedy in Mariupol since the Nazi concentration camps."

"The racists turned our whole city into a death camp."

Mr Boychenko has warned that the Bucha atrocities were just the "tip of the iceberg".

Mariupol has been the focus of Russia's most sustained bombardment since the war started on February 24.

Mr Boychenko said that 90pc of the city has been destroyed and there are thousands of civilians still trapped in the besieged city's cellars, living without food, medical supplies or drinking water.

The Kremlin says evidence of war crimes committed by its forces has been faked.
