

Vegas to get ready for a 'wild' night of boxing after Josh Warrington regained the IBF featherweight crown.

Warrington delivered a devastating display to stop Spain's Kiko Martinez at a raucous First Direct Arena in his home city of Leeds on Saturday night and become a two-time world champion. The Leeds Warrior' is now back in prime position for a career-defining world unification fight and Matchroom chief Hearn is ready to turn his American dream into reality.

Hearn said: 'I just think it would be wild. It's hard to say Ricky Hatton-esque because that was Just amazing.
'But Josh would take 10,000-plus to Vegas and it would be, I mean they'd have to prepare for it, Vegas.
'I know Vegas is a wild place, but they've seen nothing like this. We took 800 once to Germany when Josh had an eight-rounder, 800, and they're are still getting over that, not the 800, Germany. So it would be wild.' Warrington, 31, had slipped down the pecking order after his previous two fights in 2021, two defeats to Mexico's Mauricio Lara.
