

Shannon Technology and Energy Park (STEP) Power Plant

Appendix A12.2: Protected Structures

[Blank Page]

Appendix A12.2: Protected Structures

Table A12.2.1: Protected Structures

RPS Ref	NIAH Ref	Name	Type	Street/Town	Description
RPS-KY-0877		N/A	Lookout Post	Carhoonakineely	Flat roofed concrete structure with a wide aperture that allowed the searchlight to be directed across the River Shannon. Today the concrete structure, the rusted metal drum of the lamp, and the parts of the concrete housing is all that is left.
RPS-KY-0888		Ralapane House	House	Ralapane, Tarbert	Two-storey, L-shaped residence of four bays and a porch to the front dating to the 18th century

Table A12.2.2: NIAH Designed Landscape within 2 km of the Site

Ref. No.	Name	Townland	Site Status
2047	Sallowglen	Glensillagh	Shown on the 1st edition OS map edition. Boundary and site footprint still discernible with no major development having taking place. The positions of the entrances and drive have changed and none of the architectural features are still extant.

Photograph 12.1 Looking north-east across the Site.

Photograph 12.2 Terrain within the footprint of the Power Plant.

Photograph 12.3 Proposed location of the Above Ground Installation.

Photograph 12.4 Location of the ringfort (KE003-004).

Photograph 12.5 Protected Structure RPS-KY-0877 adjacent to the north-east.

Photograph 12.6 Proposed location of the secondary fuel storage.

Photograph 12.7 CHS7 Gun Emplacement within the Proposed Development.

Photograph 12.8 CHS15 Structure within the Proposed Development.

Photograph 12.9 The proposed location of the Stormwater Outfall.

Photograph 12.10 Looking north-east across the proposed location of the Power Plant.

Photograph 12.11 Looking north-east across the southern extents of the proposed locations of the compound and Power Plant.

Photograph 12.12 Looking north-east across the locations of CHS 5 possible archaeological feature and CHS 6 Well.

Photograph 12.13 Looking north-east across the proposed location of the Battery Storage Area.

Photograph 12.14 Looking west across the proposed Battery Storage Area and compound locations.

Photograph 12.15 Looking south across the proposed location of the access road and substation.

Photograph 12.16 Looking south along section where the Proposed Development joins the L1010.

Photograph 12.17 The Protected Structure Ralapane House (RPS-KY-0888).

Photograph 12.18 The National Monument Lisloughtin Abbey (NM No. 258).