

'Lights Of Love' ceremony in Fermoy

JOHN AHERN

Amid the hype and excitement associated with Christmas, the festive season is one of mixed emotions for those who have lost loved ones. 'Absent friends' were in the thoughts of those who attended last Sunday evening's 'Lights Of Love' ceremony in Fermoy Resource Centre on MacCurtain Street.

a personal message on a 'Lights Of Love' card and sponsor a light on the magnificent 'living' Christmas tree that dominates the perfectly maintained grounds of the resource centre.

MC for the occasion was Pat Leogue, who welcomed everyone in attendance and thanked the individuals and groups who helped make the event possible, most notably co-ordinator, Jacinta McCormack.

Here, relatives of those who've passed, were invited to write the crowd. Anne, from Lismore, spoke movingly about her late son, Sean. While Sean will never be forgotten, he is especially remembered at Christmas, an occasion that centres around family. Her advice to the bereaved was to take time to grieve in your own way. Pauline O'Grady-Noonan also received a short poem.

Those present were treated to refreshments at an event that encouraged everyone to take time out to remember loved ones who won't be around to share in the forthcoming festivities.
