The subject dwelling unit is located on the North Beach Rush Co. Dublin which has since 1985 accommodated a single storey house owned and lived in by my family. The house has the benefit of an ESB electrical supply, piped water connection, and existing septic tank and is currently occupied by a family member. #### This appeal reference

The subject dwelling unit is located on the North Beach Rush Co. Dublin which has since 1985 accommodated a single storey house owned and lived in by my family. The house has the benefit of an ESB electrical supply, piped water connection, and existing septic trick and is currently occupied by a family member. It is in an area that is characterised by a diverse range of different dwellings of single and two storey designs. Most dwellings in this area are located on small compact siles.

The planning history will record that two previous planning applications were made on this situ-

F21A/2076 - Retention permission refused for a 21.3 sq., dwelling, on the basis that it contravened Objective 5542 of the Finnal Development Plan.

F22A/0382 – Retention permission again refused for reason related to noncompliance with Objective RF42.

This Section 5 reference appeal does not include any other alterations to ground levels, foul sewer systems, water supply or access and do not form part of this appeal. Any such changes will be the subject of separate future applications to the planning authority. It is however noted that the internal reports on planning file F22A/0382 that the Water Services Department have no objection to any of these matters. The Planning Department have no objection to access as one historically exists.

The planning authority refused to issue a certificate of exemption under Section 5 stating the following:

"The repair, renewal of the chalet known as "The Puffin" at North Beach, Rush, Co. Dublin is development and is NOT exempt development, and would not come the scope of Section 4(1)(h) of the Planning & Development Ac t2000, as amended, not being works for the maintenance, improvement or other alteration of the original structure, but rather works for the provision of a new structure that has replaced the original structure".

The declaration under Section 5(1) of the Planning & Development Act 2000 was dated 24th February 2023.

The Submission

This Section 5 appeal is being made having fully reviewed all planning documents, comments, recommendations, planning reports and recommendations relevant to this matter, and having done so I am sure I can be excused by the Bord for my failure to understand some of the comments made therein.

It is not contested that a dwelling house existed on this site dating back to 1958 as identified on my legal documents submitted to FCC . This house was renewed and replaced from time to time and was deemed an authorised structure as it was in place before the appointed day, namely 1st October 1964. There is no contradicting evidence by the council to this fact.

Indeed an extract from the planners report in the previous planning application confirm this fact and was referenced as follows: - "The planning officer undertook a planning search of the application site by way of an examination of planning applications on the hard copy mapping system for the period 1979 to 2001 and the digital mapping system from 1995 onwards. Based on this search it is apparent that the subject site accommodated a structure from at least 1979 onwards. Online mapping tools were also used to confirm the existence of a structure on the site over the past 15 years or so. Having regard to this information coupled with some of the documentation submitted on behalf of the applicant, including the legal documentation submitted, the Planning Officer is satisfied that the site accommodated a single storey HOUSE and that this application involves its replacement with a single storey bungalow. As such the provisions of the rural settlement strategy are not considered to apply in this instance".

F3.A/0382 - Retention permission again ofused for reason related to noncompliance with Objective EPA2

This Section 5 reference appeal does not include any other alterations to ground levels, four sewer systems, water supply or access and do not turn part of this appear. Any such changes will be the subject of separate future applications to the planning authority. It is however noted that the internal reports on planning file F22A/0382 that the Water Services Department have no objection to any of these matters. The Planning Department have no objection to access as one historically exists.

The clanning authority refused to issue a certificate of exemption under Section 5 stating "The repair, renewal of the chalet known as "The Foffer" at North Beach, Rush, Co. Dublin is development and is NOT exempt development, and would not come the scape of Section 4(14h) of the Planning & Development Act 2000, as amended, not being works for the maintenance, improvement or other alteration of the original structure, but rather works for the provision of a new structure that has replaced the original structure".

The declaration under Section 5(1) of the Planning & Development Act 2000 was dated 24th Cabruary 2023

The Submission

This Section 5 appeal is being made having fully reviewed all planning documents, comments, recommendations, planning reports and recommendations relevant to this matter, and having done so I am sure I can be excused by the Bord for my failure to understand some of the comments made therem.

It is not confested that a dwelling house existed on this site dating back to 1958 as identified con my legal documents submitted to ECC. This house was renewed and replaced from time to the end was deemed an authorised structure as it was in place before the appointed day, namely 1st October 1964. There is no contradicting evidence by the council to this last

Indeed an extract from the planners report in the previous planning application confirm this fact and was referenced as follows: - "The planning afficer undertook a planning search of the application site by way of an examination of planning applications on the hard copy mapping system for the period 1979 to 2001 and the digital inapping system from 1995 aniward. Based on this search it is apparent that the subject site accompanted a structure from at least 1979 onwards. Online mapping tools were also used to confirm the existence of a structure on the site over the past 15 years or so. Hoving regard to this information of a structure on the site occurrentation submitted, the Planning Officer is satisfied that the site accomplated a single storey HOUSE and that this application involves its replanement with a single-storey bungplow. As such the provisions of the rural settlement strategy are not considered to application in this instance?"

That original house had a floor area concrete of approx. 21.6 m. that slab has not been extended and contains the partial renewal restructuring work carried out to the vandalised burnt out dwelling. There are no original drawings available for the dwelling but photographs of the vandalised dwelling were submitted to the planning authority. I have since recovered some more photos of the site copies which I enclose for the Bords attention.

Assessment of Proposal

The planning authority effectively determined that given the extent of demolition and replacement of the original house, that the new build created a new dwelling which is not authorised. I strongly contest this view and having carried out extensive research on both high court state case decisions and previous decisions of An Bord Pleanala will rely on their decisions.

The Supreme Court - 084/03

This was a Judgement handed down by by Mr. Justice Mc Cracken delivered on 17th day of December 2004. The court referred to a previous order of Morris P dated 4TH February in this matter. The judge noted, - clearly s.4(1)(g), now 4(!)(h), by referring to "other alterations", implies that there can be alterations which do not materially affect the external appearance of the structure or render such appearance inconsistent with the character of the structure or of neighbouring structures. In that context, therefore, "alteration" cannot be confined to something which materially affects the appearance of the structure. The alteration which is contended for in the present cases the replacement on the gable wall of a new hoarding in place of the then existing hoarding.

One of the essential findings of the learned trial judge was what he called "the planning unit" consisted of the gable wall with the hoarding attached. It follows logically from this finding that there has been an alteration to the planning unit by the substitution of one hoarding by another.

The judge further stated that it is unreal to look at a hoarding of this nature as a structure in isolation from the rest of the building.

In consideration of the above opinion, I think it unreal for FCC to look at the renewal of the "The Puffin" in isolation from the rest of the structures and services located within the curtilage of the site, which was referred to above by the learned judge as "the planning unit". In my case that would include the original foundations, concrete floor slab of the original house, concrete toilet block, ESB pole and electrical connection on site, piped water supply and septic tank on site. The repair/renewal of the dwelling are substantially the same size and appearance to that which has been in place since 1958.

In Cardiff v O Connell(1986) IR73 a balcony and staircase were erected at the rear of a building on which there had, some years previously, been a balcony and staircase, although of different dimensions. At page 77 Justice Finlay CJ said:

That original house had a floor area concrete of approx. 22.6 or, that slab has not been extended and contains the partial renewal estructuring work carried out to the vandalised burnt out dwelling. There are no original drawings available for the dwelling but photographs of the vandalised dwelling were submitted to the planning authority. # Assessment of Proposal

The planning authority effectively determined that given the extent of demolition and appacement of the original house, that the new build created a new dwelling which is not authorised. I shonely contest this view and having carried out extensive research on both high court state case decisions and previous decisions of Antional Pleanals will rely on their decisions.

In Cardiff y O Connell(1986) 1873 a Dalcuny and staircase were elected at the rear of a building on which there had some years previously, been a balcony and staircase, although of different dimensions. At page 77 Justice Finley Creaid

"It is clear that if a structure had a particular adjunct such as a balcony and staircase, and if for a relatively short period of time that had been removed or had become demolished, its replacement with one of substantially the same size and appearance would not materially affect the external appearance of the structure on the basis that immediately when work commenced no balcony or staircase existed."

In the case of "The Puffin"! would ask that consideration be also given to the fact that the works were renewal works carried out to comply with health and safety and that this Section 5 reference appeal would never have to be made, if the house on site was not vandalised and fire damaged by an unknown occupant and caused gardai to attend.

High Court

The works the subject matter of this reference appeal relate solely to the replacement of timber wall cladding and roof. In this regard I would refer An Bord Pleanala to, and rely on, the judgement of the High Court Mr. Justice Keane No. 41 MCA of Fingal County Council V David Byrne. The character of the structure in that case consisted of a dwelling house by the sea in an area of high amenity. The learned judge on that occasion found and was satisfied that, the replacement of the timber look a like cladding to the external of the dwelling wit external brickwork cladding was exempted development within the meaning of Section 4(1)(g) now 4(1)(h) of the Local Government (Planning & Development ) ACT 1963.

Bord Pleanala

I would request the Bord to review my case with reference to the above matters and court decisions. I would further refer to the decision of Bord Pleanala with particular reference to Ref. 27.RL2572. The bords decision in this case referred to a section 5 reference appeal at Rose cottage, Brockagh, Glendalough, Co. Wicklow. The section 5 reference appeal referred to a domestic extension and the repair and renewal to a cottage. The Bord concluded that:

- (a) The works of repair renewal to Rose Cottage are of a nature and scale consistent with the purposes of maintenance, improvement, or other alterations to a structure and do not materially affect the external appearance of the structure so as to render the appearance inconsistent with the character of the structure.
- (b) The works come within the exempted development provisions of Section 4(1)(h) of the Planning & Development Act 2000-20023; and are exempted development.

Conclusion

For these and all other reasons referred to in this appeal, I respectfully suggest that the planning authority due to lack of history documentation or personal knowledge of the site have erred in their decision which diminishes natural justice and denies me my civil right to make good my property, notwithstanding the volume of supporting documentation legal and otherwise submitted that the works in this case were of repair and renewal. In such circumstance I would sincerely and respectfully request An Bord Pleanala to reverse the decision of Fingal County Council planning authority and make a declaration to the effect that the works of repair and renewal to The Puffin are of a nature and scale consistent with

Dear Sir/Madam.

I make this submission in the matter of the above application and seek a Declaration of Exemption for the works referenced under the Exempted Development provisions of the Planning and Development Act 2001-2022.

The Detalls of Reference. Whether the works of partial repair, ranewal, estructuring and replacement of the vandalised burnt out timber diveiling known as the "The Puffin", located at North Beach, Rush, Co. Dublin, is or is not development, or is or is not exempted development."

in making this submission. I had regard particularly to: -

- sections 2,3 and 4(1)(h)of the planning and Development Act. 2000; and
- h) Articles R and S of the Planning and Development Regulations, 2001, and
- c) Classes 1 and (50)(a)(a) of Part 1, Schedule 2, of the Planning and Development Regulations 100...
- (d) The previous history of the site and the nature and extent of the works carried out and all previous documentation submitted to Fingal County Council in relation to these ends. They include:
  - Statutory Declaration date 5" August 2020.
  - Correspondence from family and extended family
    - Certified Indenture dated December 1958
  - Legal documentation dated October 1973 regarding same.
    - Legal agreement made in 1980.
    - Indenture dated October 1984.
    - Deed of Assignment dated February 2018.
  - Energy bills in research of "The Puffin". North Beach, Fush Co Dublin.
- Amended Stamp Certificate in respect of "The Pullin", North Beach, Co. Dublin.

The Council will be aware that two previous planning applications were made in relation to this site. This Submission/Section 5 Reference is being made with reliance on FCC. V Keeling & Sons (2005) 21. R108 case where the Supreme Court concluded that no issue of Estopple can arise merely by the making of a planning application.

The previous documentation submitted to the Council and referred to above clearly proves the existence of a bungalow dwelling on the subject site since 1958 and was renewed and replaced from time to time. The bungalow was deemed an authorised structure as it was in place before the appointed day, namely 1st October 1964. There is no contradicting evidence by the Council to this fact.

Indeed an extract from the planners reports in the previous applications confirms this fact and was referenced as follows: - "The planning officer undertook a planning search of the application site by way of an examination of planning applications on the hard copy mapping system for the period 1979 to 2001 and the digital mapping system from 1995 onwards. Based on this search it is apparent that the subject site accommodates a structure from at least 1979 onwards. Online mapping tools were also used to confirm the existence of a structure on the site over the past 15 years or so. Having regard to this information coupled with some of the documentation submitted on behalf of the applicant, including the legal documentation submitted, the Planning Officer is satisfied that the site accommodated a single storey house and that this application involves its replacement with a single storey timber bungalow. As such the provisions of the rural settlement strategy are not considered to apply in this instance".

It is obvious that the Council planning officers have not, or do not know, from their own direct knowledge what existed on this site prior to their only one visit in 2020. They therefore cannot give any direct evidence of the size of the previous dwelling, the location of the previous dwelling, the floor area of the previous dwelling or its continuous use or occupation up to that date. For information purposes photos of the vandalised dwelling are enclosed.

The works entailed the repair, renewal, restructure and replacement of the vandalise dwelling on site. It is not in any material way different from that which was on site since 1958 and the new timber cladding is located on the existing floor slab and foundations and is identical in its dimensions with that which immediately pre-existed it.

Clearly s. 4.(1)(g), by referring to "other alterations", implies that there can be alterations which do not materially affect the external appearance of the structure or render such appearance inconsistent with the character of the structure or of neighbouring structures. The alteration provided for in this case is the replacement of walls and roof in place of the previous vandalised dwelling. It is not a protected structure.

I think it unreal to look at the renewal of "The Puffin in isolation from the rest of the structures and services on site." The Council must consider all structures and services within the site. This view has previously been taken in Supreme Court judicial decisions. The area within the red line is referred to as "the planning unit". In this case that would include the existing foundations, concrete floor slab of the original house still on site, the concrete toilet

The Council will be aware that two previous planning applications were made in relation to this site. This Submission/Section 5 Reference is being made with reliance on FCC V Keering & Sons (2005) 21. R108 case where the Supreme Court concluded that no issue of Estopple can arise merely by the making of a planning application.

The previous documentation submitted to the Council and referred to above clearly proves the existence of a bungalow dwelling on the subject site since 1958 and was renewed and replaced from time to time. The bungalow was deemed an authorised structure as it was in place before the appointed day, namely 19 October 1964. There is no contradicting satisfact.

Indeed an extract from the planners reports in the previous applications confirms this fact and was referenced as follows:—"The planning officer undertook a planning search of the application site by way of an examination of planning applications on the hard copy mapping system for the period 1979 to 2001 and the digital mapping system from 1995 onwards. Based on this search it is apparent that the subject site accommodates a structure from at least 1979 onwards. Online mapping tools were also used to confirm the existence of a structure on the site over the past 15 years or so. Having regard to this information coupled with some of the documentation submitted on behalf of the applicant, including the legal documentation submitted, the Planning Officer is satisfied that the site accommodated a single storey house and that this application involves its replacement with a single storey timber bungalow. As such the provisions of the rural settlement strategy are not considered to apply in this instance."

it is obvious that the Council planning officers have not, or do not know, from their own direct knowledge what existed on this site prior to their only one visit in 2020. They therefore cannot give any cirect evidence of the size of the previous dwelling, the location of the previous dwelling or its continuous use or occupation up to that date. For information purposes photos of the vandalised dwelling are enclosed.

The works entailed the repair, renewal, restructure and replacement of the vandalise dwelling on site. It is not in any material way different from that which was on site since 1958 and the new timber clauding is located on the existing floor slab and foundations and is identical in its dimensions with that which immediately pre-existed it.

Clearly s. 4.(1)(g), by referring the "other alterations", implies that there can be alterations which do not materially affect the external appearance of the structure or render such appearance inconsistent with the character of the structure or of neighbouring structures. The alteration provided for in this case is the replacement of walls and roof in place of the previous vandalised dwelling. It is not a protected structure.

I think it unreal to look at the renewal of "The P. Ifin in isolation from the rest of the structures and services on site." The Council must consider all structures and services within the site. This view has previously been taken in Supreme Court judicial decisions. The area within the red line is referred to as "the planning unit". In this case that would include the existing foundations, concrete floor slab of the original house still on site, the concrete toilet block still located on site, the ESB pole and connection still on site, the septic tank still on site and piped water supply still on site. The works to the dwelling are substantially the same size appearance to that which has been in place since 1958.

This section 5 reference does not include any other alterations to ground levels, fouls sewer systems water supply or access and do not form part of this reference. Any such changes will be the subject of separate future planning applications to the planning authority.

In conclusion I ask that consideration be given to the fact that this Section 5 would never have to be made other that the house on site was vandalised and fire damaged by an unknown occupant who caused gardai to attend and remove the occupant from the property.

I therefore respectfully request that the above facts be fully considered and having done so will be in a position to issue a declaration to the effect that the works carried out are development but exempted development.

Yours Sincerely,

Colin Brady.

Re: Retention Permission sought for the replacement of the existing summer home "Puffin" at Six Cross Lane, North Beach, Rush, Co. Dublin.

Dear Sir / Madam,

We submit on behalf of our client Colin Brady a planning application for retention permission for the replacement of the demolished structure with a small 21.3sq. m. modern structure, comprising a single storey bungalow style dwelling, to match the existing dwellings in the immediate vicinity and surrounding area.

As per the attached correspondence indentures, maps and details, the original house was the residence of our client's family since 1984. The "Puffin" was originally built circa. 1958 and used by our clients extended family on week- ends and during the summer holiday months of May to September. The site had the benefit of existing piped water supply, drainage and ESB facilities and there is no additional demand for same sought.

This continued up to early 2013 when unfortunately, unauthorised persons took over and occupied the property and were in 2016 removed from the property by the gardai. Sometime later the property was vandalised to the extent that it had, in the interest of health and safety, to be removed. The site was completely cleared, and all structures and debris removed. The small replacement house erected has an internal floor of 21.3 sq.m. and replaced the original floor area of 32 sq. m. with a smaller modern structure.

The rebuilt dwelling is modest in area and height and is designed to fit in and assimilate with similar existing dwellings in the area with the minimum of impact or loss of residential amenity.

From the documentation and indentures submitted the Council will see that our client and his immediate family have a long-established tradition of living in the North Beach area.

In such circumstances we would with respect, request that the permission sought by our client to reconstruct the structure known as "Puffin" with a modest modern single storey dwelling be granted in this instance.

Yours Sincerely,

Re: Retention Permission sought for the replacement of the small single storey timber bungalow and for the construction of a new waste- water treatment and surface water drainage systems at "Puffin", Six Cross Lane, Rush, Co. Dublin.

Dear Sir/Madam,

We are retained by our client Colin Brady and submit on his behalf a planning application for the works referenced above and contained in the statutory newspaper and site notices.

A range of documents and correspondence has already been submitted to the Planning Authority in relation to a previous application (F20A/0382) on this site including Indentures, Statutory Declaration, Deeds of Assignments, Energy Bills and Amended Stamp Certificate. We would respectfully request that these documents be read in conjunction with this revised application.

As per the attached correspondence the original dwelling was erected on this site in 1958 and used as a residence over that period up to 2016 when it was vandalised and had to be removed. We note from the planning officers report that a very detailed planning search of the application site was carried by way of an examination of planning applications on the hard copy mapping system for the period 1979-2001 and the digital mapping system for the period 1995 onwards. The officer concluded that based on this search it was apparent that the subject site accommodated a structure for at least 1979 onwards. Online mapping tools were also used to confirm the existence of a structure on the site over the last 15 years or so. Re Percotion Permission sought for the replacement of the small single storey timber bungalow and for the construction of a new waster water treatment and surface water drainage systems at "Puffin", Sir Gross Lane, Rush, Co. Dublin.

Dear Su/Medam, who are retained by our client folio brady and schmitt on his behalf a pinnsing application for the works reference half, we and contained in the statistory newspaper and site nutlices.

A range of occuments and correspondence to already been submitted to the Planning outhority Intrelation to a previous application (F2QA 0.382) on this size including indentures, Statutory Deck-ation. Deeds of Astignments. Energy Bills and Amended Stamp Sertificacy we would respectfully request that those documents be read in conjunction with this revised application.

As purity and actions specified the odginal of subspecified was cardialised and had to be and median it was cardialised and had to be and median of we note from the planting officers report that a very detailed planting specific it is a paid to a militarion site was carried by way of an evaluation of planning replication on the planting option of the planting report to a report that the application of the contract of the contr

the planning officer was satisfied that the site accommodated a single storey house, and that the application involved its replacement with a single storey timber bungalow. It was further noted and accepted by the area planner that no undue impacts on the visual or residential amenity of the area would occur arising from the development as proposed.

Notwithstanding the above, permission was refused for two specified reasons:

- Objective RF42 of the Fingal Development Plan 2017-2023 relates to the replacement or conversion of chalets in exceptional circumstances subject to a number of different criteria being met. The applicant has not submitted evidence to demonstrate compliance with this objective. In the absence of such information the development to be retained would therefore materially contravene Objective RF42 of the Fingal Development Plan 2017-2023 and as such, would be contrary to the proper planning and development of the area.
- Having regard to the information submitted with the planning application, specifically the inadequacy of information in respect of foul drainage, the lack of information in relation to surface water drainage and in the absence of an Appropriate Assessment Screening, it has not been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Planning Department that the development to be retained would not have a significant effect on Rogerstown SAC and SPA and the Rocabill to Dalkey Island SAC, either alone or in combination with other plans or projects. The proposal, would therefore, be contrary to the proper planning and sustainable development of the area.

In the interest of clarity, we propose to deal with the said reasons in the same numerical order in the following terms:

In order to demonstrate compliance with RF42 of the Fingal County Development Plan 2017-2023, a Statutory Declaration is submitted detailing evidence to demonstrate compliance and signed by:

- Lesley Meyer
- Joan Brady
- Colin Brady

The evidence, in tandem with all other correspondence submitted proves that this is a LEGACY SITE which accommodated a dwelling and had the on- site benefit of a septic tank and ESB connection. This fact has been confirmed following a detailed search/examination of the planning documents and mapping systems referred to in the planning officers report of September 2020 (F20A/0382) page 6, Paragraph 2 - "the Planning Officer is satisfied that the site accommodated a single storey house, and that the application involves its replacement with a single storey timber bungalow". During that period of time since 1958 the residential use of the site or unit thereon was never abandoned. We therefore with respect strongly reject any inference that the replacement proposed would in any way contravene Objective 42 as alleged.

The Councils concerns in relation to the inadequacy of information submitted in relation to foul and surface water drainage is noted in Reason 2 of the previous decision to refuse planning permission.

In this regard our clients have commissioned the professional services of Hydrocare Environmental Limited to carry out soil percolation and investigation tests and the preparation of a Site Investigation Report. The said report was completed on 1st February 2021 and submitted with this application. The conclusion of the expert's report will confirm that the new proposal represents a significant upgrade on the existing shared septic tank arrangement which has been in existence for over 30 years. The EPA Manual for Design of Treatment Plants 2009 for one off houses refers to legacy sites and supports upgrading of existing foul waste systems to ensure compliance with public health, water quality and environmental protection requirements.

The planning authority has further concern in relation to the absence of an Appropriate Assessment Screening Report being submitted. Having noted this concern our client commissioned the services of EHP Services providing specialist town planning and environmental planning services to carry out a Stage1 Appropriate Assessment Screening Report for our client's development at North Beach, Rush, Co. Dublin.

The said report was completed on 9th February 2021, a copy of which is submitted with this application. The conclusion of this report confirms that the existing dwelling on site will have no negative impacts upon any European Sites comprising the Natura 2000 network.

A finding of no significant impact (FONS) can be subsequently and confidently reached.

The proposed development does not therefore necessitate or warrant progression to Stage 2 Appropriate Assessment.

In conclusion it is clear from the documentation and declarations submitted that our client and his family have a long-established tradition of living in the North Beach area. The correspondence clearly identifies the subject site as a Legacy site that clearly accommodated a dwelling, fully serviced with a septic tank, access and electricity connection.

The Councils concerns in relation to foul and surface water have been successfully addressed in the Characterisation Report by Hydrocare Environmental Ltd. in addition to the Appropriate Assessment Screening Report compiled by EHP Services.

We would in such circumstances respectfully request that the permission sought be granted in this instance.

We, the undersigned of Rush, Baskin, and Swords County Dublin, Solemnly and Sincerely Declare from our own personal knowledge and in the interest of clarity and certainty the following:

- 1. The property to which this declaration relates is a dwelling located at North Beach Rush, County Dublin comprised in Folio 5593 incorporating front and rear gardens, water and sewage facilities and residential structure thereon.
- The property known as "The Puffin" was owned and occupied as a dwelling house since 1958 by the Gully and Craig families and Lesley Meyer a niece Frank Gully of and signatory to this declaration and was their shared residence on an ongoing basis up to 1984 (a period of 26 years). The property was purchased jointly from them by Joan Brady's parents (William & Molly Buckley) and others, by Deed of Assignment dated 10thOctober 1984. The dwelling was the residence of the Brady family until 2009. It was vacated and subsequently occupied by Colin Brady for a period of 3 years. Unfortunately, due to some family and probate issues, the property was not lived in except occasionally at weekends. In 2014 unauthorised occupation of the dwelling took place, requiring gardai assistance to regain control of the property in 2016. It was subsequently vandalised beyond repair and for health and safety reasons demolished. The property was subsequently, by Deed Assignment and Grant in 2018 gifted to their son Colin Brady the current owner of the property.

- 3 The dwelling known as the "Puffin" was built in 1958 as was the shared residence of the Gully, Craig, and Brady families until 2012. They were joined during summer holidays and weekends by our extended families who also parked a mobile home on site. The undersigned can from their own direct knowledge confirm that the dwelling was a family home used from 1958 (until it was vandalised and rendered unusable in 2016) without any interruption, complaint or interference from Dublin County Council or subsequently by Fingal County Council
- 4 During that period, no notices of any sort were served upon any occupiers or families by the Local Authority in connection with the property or use thereof.
- 5 We make this Declaration from our own direct knowledge, consciously believing the same to be true and by virtue of the Statutory Declarations Act 1938 for the benefit of Colin Brady.
